I am enrolled as a student of Computer Science at Goldsmiths, University of London. In pursuing my degree on a virtual platform, my work ethic, discipline and communication skills have been highlighted, and reinforced by positive feedback and the desire to learn and develop. Before making the decision to change trajectories, career-wise, my prior studies in Business, Accounting and Law, instilled not only invaluable knowledge in their respective fields, but also sparked my interest in Programming and Web Development. This hobby has grown to be my primary focus and passion.
